New Auditorium Gained From Bond Issue

Running the legal matters of school is the main concern of the school board. The members employ teachers and keep up the maintenance of all Putnam City Schools. They also recommend bond issues. One of the bond issues recommended and passed will provide PCW with an auditorium.

Mr. Leo C. Mayfield, who is vice-president of the Oklahoma Education Association, was largely responsible for the passing of this bond issue.

Mr. Fred R. Caviness, one of the assistant superintendents, maintains the operation of the Putnam City School district.

New to the position of Assistant Superintendent is Mr. Orville Robinson, who is in charge of personnel. Mr. Robinson took the place of Mr. J. Frank Malone, who retired and became headmaster at Heritage Hall.

In charge of all materials ordered by teachers and schools is Purchasing Agent Mr. Glen Crouch.

Taking time out for a deserved break and to talk with Purchasing Secretary Mrs. Helen Erwin is Principal Melvin F. Corn

Mr. Melvin F. Corn is Principal of Putnam City West for his fourth year. One of his main goals is to increase public relations

Parents Receive New Insight To PCW

Showing the PTA Secretary, Mrs. Franklin Elliot, around the school on Wednesday tour day is Assistant Principal Dean Wild

Mr. Dean Wild and Mr. Fred Hambrick are assistant principals. They handle discipline problems and maintain contact with parents

Wednesday tour day, to explain the school to patrons, was to help better public relations. Also to help with public relations were the Coffee-klotches held at some of the parents' homes at which Mr. Corn explained the problems and needs of the school. One thing that is needed that was received was the new auditorium to provide extra classroom space that will be needed in the future. These two ideas were for the benefit of the parents so that they could better understand what happens in a school day

Mr. Dean Wild and Mr. Fred Hambrick help Mr. Corn to run the school by handling discipline problems. They each took half of the alphabet of the three grades. This was done so that they could have the same students each year. They also call the parents if their children are having any trouble and are absent too much.

Members Decorate Windows For Christmas

Giving art students a chance to express their talent and creativity, the Art Club members and their advisors went to several art shows and museums in May. Students participated in competitive shows at the Redridge Art Museums, Emerald Art Festival and Young Talents art show.

Attending the Eight State Art Exhibit on October 7 at the state fairgrounds, members experienced art work from an eight state school. The exhibit featured a special Christmas art show. Club members were working on a project and creating art using water colors and sculpture.

Losing their uniforms in the fire at the Mayfair Shopping Center August 29 was a misfortune for the Patriot Band. Without uniforms the Patriot Band still gave traditional half-time entertainment at many football games and concerts throughout the year.

Crowning the Band Queen after the game against McGuinness and the fall concert December 9 were among the early activities of the Band.

"Smile" and "Love" plaques were sold by members of the Band to raise money for their trip, the destination of which was decided upon in spring.

Making their debut at the last home game was the Flag Corps, consisting of sixteen girls in Pep Club uniforms carrying blue and gold flags in formation with the band.

Competing in the Pre-Contest Competition at Central State, the Band went on to District Contest at OCU and the State Contest at OU.

W. C. Fields, Little Rascals Guests

"Come one, come all!" was the cry heard by many students passing the Little Theater. The United Audio Visual Workers showed movies to the students during all three lunch periods. Starring such greats as W. C. Fields and the Little Rascals, these films proved to be an immediate success among the student body. The proceeds of these films went to purchasing equipment for the Audio-Visual department.

Members also ran films for classrooms and spotlights in assemblies, as well as video-taping special events, sports, and school functions.

Christian Girls Promote Christ-like Life

Members of the Fellowship of Christian Girls changed their organization to Campaigners for Christ. The club was organized last year to help girls come closer to Christ. Any girl that was interested in participating in the club's activities could join. Holding their meetings on the first and last Monday of each month kept the many members occupied. Most evenings a guest speaker was usually available for a question and answer session.

Election of eight officers was one of the many tasks that awaited the new members when they joined. The girls were sponsored by Mrs. John O'Donoghue.

Representing the Campaigners for Christ is Patricia Gannon, a student participant in the activity.

In existence for the fourth year the Chess Club's membership has continued to grow. Strategy, know how, and sportsmanship were the abilities required to join the club. Eight members met these requirements.

Holding their meetings on the first and third Fridays of every month, the club learned and practiced their "plan of attack." Changing their pace a little by trying their hand at a new sport, the club held a bowling party in December.

Preparing for an annual chess tournament that was held in March, kept the members busy. The tournament was open to anyone who wanted to participate.

Coronation Held During First Chorus Musical

"We've Only Just Begun" was the theme for the Chorus Department's first concert. During the concert the chorus King and Queen Coronation was held. Crowned were Gwen Mustain and Gene Reeves.

Giving their first musical, the Chorus Department presented "Aman! and the Night Visitors" on December 20.

Attending a Thanksgiving Festival at Oklahoma State University was the Advanced Girls Glee Club. Rehearsals were held all afternoon and a concert giving that evening. An orchestra accompanied the chorus and the closing song was "From Sea to Shining Sea".

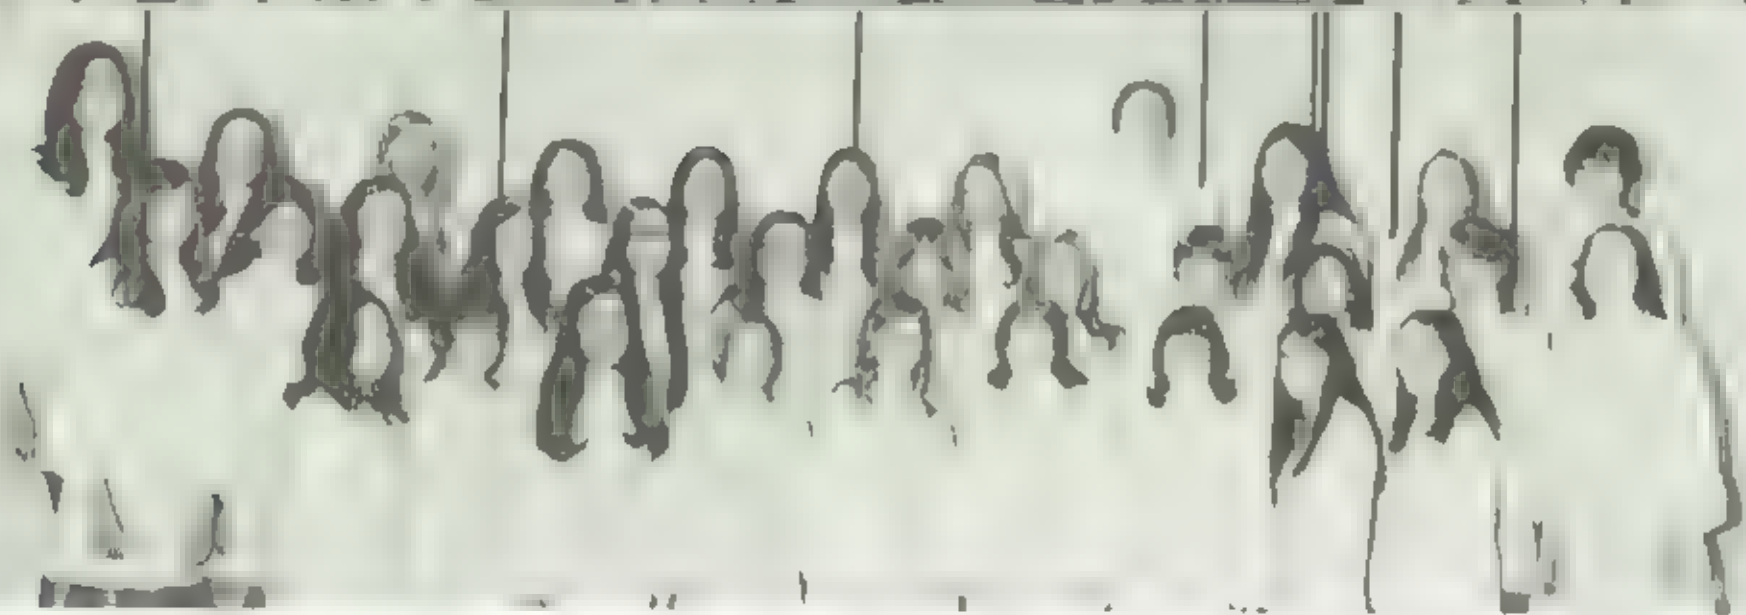

Added to the department was a Girls Glee Club. The club has about 35 members and four officers. The chorus department had three student teachers, Mrs. Pam Simmons, Mr. Tyrone Smith and Mrs. Cheryl Garrison.

Participating in the Central State University Concert and the District and State Contest were the West Chimes, Girls Glee Club and West Aires.

"Help the needy" was the cry of the Health Careers Club.

The organization sponsored a gigantic garage sale at PCW cafeteria in early December. The proceeds were donated to charitable community projects and organization.

They took children from the Bethany Convalescent Hospital to the Lawton-West football game which was held November 5.

In addition they practiced first aid on a dummy named Resasiann, which was provided by the Deaconess Hospital and heard speakers from the Army Nursing Corps.

Holding their organizational meeting during the early part of October, members of the Literary Club discussed objectives for the year and elected fellow members as the Executive Committee. Any student interested in creative writing was encouraged to join.

Getting underway, the Literary Club promised publication of "Write On," and "mini-mag" containing poems, short stories and plays written by students and submitted to Mrs. Joan O'Donohue, the sponsor.

Electing officers in October was the first chore of the members of Mu Alpha Theta, an organization celebrating its second year at PCW.

Comprised of students excelling in mathematics, Mu Alpha Theta is a national high school and junior college mathematics club promoting mathematical activities with 1400 chapters in the U.S., Switzerland, England, Japan, the Canal Zone and four other countries.

Requirements for membership into the club included recommendation on the basis of high school scholastic records. Each student wishing to enter had to have maintained a 3.5 grade average throughout seven semesters of high school courses.

The organization held its initiation banquet December 2 at which members were officially initiated into the organization. The club took several field trips during the second semester and guest speakers were featured at their meetings.

Holding their organizational meeting September 21, the Science Club elected officers and made suggestions for club activities such as visits to the Kirkpatrick Planetarium, the Oklahoma University Medical Center, FAA and a greenhouse. The organization also discussed projects with which to improve the school.

In mid-October twelve members of the club went to the Oklahoma City Zoo, where they learned what different animals ate and of their habits. November's field trip was to the Kirkpatrick Planetarium to see the program "The Vikings in Oklahoma." The organization planned to visit the OU Medical Center in December.

Pondering unanswered questions, Women's Liberation, religion and drug abuse, the Student Forum consisted of students interested in letting their opinions be known and hearing others tell theirs

Planning meetings and activities was the job of a volunteer activities committee which took the place of officers that the Forum felt were not altogether necessary

Meeting once a month in the homes of fellow members, the group discussed current topics of interest before, during, and after eating the pot luck supper that each member contributed to by bringing a dish of food

Stuco Plans West's Various Activities

Continually working with students to make the school better, the Student Council ran through a gauntlet of worthwhile charitable and profitable enterprises

Beginning their activities before school with the summer synopsis assembly, Stuco went on to more fascinating ideas such as the Sticky Candy Campaign, a Stuco workshop and weiner roast and the Thanksgiving assembly which featured the chorus singing "America the Beautiful" and a skit which emphasized the fact that too many people take Thanksgiving for granted anymore

Charitable projects such as sponsoring people from old folks homes for Christmas were a part of Stuco extracurricular activities. Other projects during the winter season were hosting Student Council officers of district X and Saturday night activities for students

End of the year activities were the presenting of Mr and Miss Patriot, the election of the officers for the 1972-73 year and the traditional end-of-school picnic

The Patriots then tasted bitter defeat losing to Norman, Lawton Ike, Yukon, Duncan, Moore, Star Spencer, and Lawton in order, for seven straight games.

Sophomores Dominate Patriot Wrestling Squad

Starting the year off on the right foot the Wrestling Squad came home from the Edmond Tournament with a fourth place victory.

Winning their first match of the season the Patriots defeated the McGuiness varsity. Losing the next five matches didn't bother the wrestlers because they came home with a second place trophy from the Duncan Tournament held January 17-18.

Defeating the Star Spencer Bobcats in the homecoming match started the Patriots back on to the winning track but they ran into defeat against Norman. Winning three of the next six matches the Patriots ended the season with five wins and nine losses. Regionals were held on February 18th and 19th with the Patriots failing to advance anyone to the State Tournament.

Strengthening men's as well as women's leadership among them to function with confidence is the goal of the Physical Education Department.

Under the guidance of Mr. Earl Sanders and Mrs. Paulette Graves, the classes compete in various exercises and sports including basketball, volleyball, baseball, football, horseback, badminton, archery, croquet and ping pong.

Changes in pace for the FE people came when they played the video extra role game of change.

Organizing activities for the seniors during the 1971-72 school year were the officers and sponsors. Events included the senior float for the homecoming parade, Baccalaureate held in the gym on May 21, and Commencement which was held in the State Fairgrounds Arena May 25.

Winning the float competition as juniors and again as seniors was a first for any graduating class of West. The senior jewelry was rendered as the school crest in yellow and white gold.

Choosing of graduation announcements in December was another preparation for May Commencement. The Junior-Senior Prom held in the Top of the Mall provided a last chance for upperclassmen to gather, while the Senior Class Banquet ended the last meeting of the senior class. Baccalaureate and Commencement ended the reign of the Class of '72 as they prepared to go their separate ways.

Seniors Were Involved In Many Activities

Standing: Shelby Kordish, vice president, and Jody Harlin, inter-club council representative.

Presiding over the Junior Class was Tom Henthorn assisted by, Shelby Kordish, vice-president, Debby Adams, treasurer, Sylvia Strahorn, secretary, and Jody Harlin, inter-club council representative.

Class activities included selling Kazaks and Patriot license tags in September.

In November, the dream of choosing and ordering their Senior rings came true.

In Junior Class tradition, a Christmas assembly was held with humorous skits and songs. Candles were sold, the money going towards the Prom.

In Spring, a Junior's fancy turns to the Prom. Work on the decorations began early to prepare for the festivities. The girls were in a tizzy making provisions for the upcoming event, while the boys were frantically searching for their other black sock. Surrounding all the activities was the familiar chant, "We're the Patriots, proud to be the Senior Class of '73".

Interested sophomores participated in the summer student council to help them become better acquainted with the way the school operates and school traditions.

'We're the Patriots forevermore, Senior class of '74 rang through the halls for the first time when the new sophomores gathered together to prepare themselves for the experience of entering high school in the sophomore orientation held August 26th. On this day sophomores received schedules and lockers and attended an assembly in which juniors and seniors performed skits and various other entertainment that reviewed what the new students were headed for in high school.

The underclassmen elected officers by secret ballot to help them organize their recreational activities, money raising and community service projects.

Bake sales were held November 16th and 17th and December 13th, 14th, and 15th, to raise money for the junior-senior prom they will host next year.

Dear Patriots

I've acquired the privilege of sorting and arranging words to write volume four of the 'leditor's etter'. When the first deadline came we didn't have to stay late because we had gotten far ahead of the number of pages that were due.

In the middle of the second nine weeks Mr West decided to leave us for a better job working for the Oklahoma Education Association public relations department.

When Mr. Wake took over, he had just received his diploma from Central State University. He pulled the staff through the second, third and final deadlines with only a few minor problems.

I just want the staff to know that when Mr West, Mr. Wake or I yelled and returned copy it was because we wanted a better yearbook.

It's been a great year. I would like to thank the seniors, along with the rest of the student body for some of the problems they caused with the photographs we tried to take of them. Seriously, I think this has been my best year here at West.

Russell
